Holland, September, 6 1873.

Local News.

Government agents have commenced the work of building a dwelling for the Light House Keeper at the mouth of the Black Lake.

Van Landegend & Melis are selling hardware cheaper than the cheapest; for good bargains call and see them at the brick store on Main street.

Owing to the severe sickness of workmen in our office we are unable to issue our regular paper this week, we hope to be all right and on hand as usual next week.

The Secretary of the Board of Education of this city desires us to state that no change of school books will be required for pupils who attend the Public Schools the present term.

It is announced that the balloon for Europe will start some time between the first and tenth of September. Every appliance to secure success will be provided, and the proprietors confidently anticipate success. All depends upon the winds, however, whether we shall ever hear of Wise or Donaldson again.

A good chance to make a bargain is now offered by one of our public spirited citizens. To any one who will put up a good brick building three stories high and put in a first class stock of dry goods, an eligible lot on Eighth street centrally located for business will be given free, title perfect. This is decidedly the best offer for a business ever made in this city. For further particulars inquire at the office of "Holland City News."

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Saturday last, several persons from Pigion River went a duck hunting. Among them was Fred Kemma a very respectable German aged 34 years who was shot in the abdomen and lived but a few hours. The party had left their boat for a stroll on the bank of Lake Michigan near Port Sheldon, returning to the boat Mr. Kemma stepped into it to arrange the guns when the hammer of one caught against the side of the boat causing it to discharge, the contents taking effect as above stated.

The storm that recently ravaged Halifax, N. S., and the whole north-eastern coast, was the most terrible that has visited that country in years. Wharves, railways, bridges, barns and houses have been washed away or beaten down by the storm in every direction. Vessels have been wrecked by scores in Halifax harbor. Over fifty are ashore in Cow Bay, and fully one hundred are believed to be stranded on the shores of Cape Breton. The crops have not suffered less terribly. Within a radius of 200 miles all the fruit trees are stripped. The loss of life seems miraculously small, as is shown by the fact that but one soul perished in the fifty shipwrecks at Cow Bay.

RIGHT OF WAY.—We learn that the committee to procure right of way for a rail road track to be laid down in Seventh street are not succeeding as well as hoped for; property owners along the street requiring in some instances as much for the right of way as the whole property is worth; the result of which will be, if persisted in other parts of the city, the abandonment of the Iron works on the south side of the lake with the probability of locating them upon the north side. It is certainly of no particular interest to the stockholders of the company to locate their works within the city limits, and they are not inclined to pay very largely for the right of way to get to them when it has been offered them and a large bonus beside to locate elsewhere, upon equally as favorable a site. Our citizens should be just as liberal as possible towards the company or we may lose the whole thing. An effort will be made to reach the site and secure the right of way for it through the southern part of the city; if this scheme fails we fear all is lost.

The Holland Iron and Mining Company are now fully organized and ready for business. At a meeting of the stockholders last Monday evening Mr. Chas. T. Ford was elected as general Superintendent of the Company. Mr. Ford has gone to New York to complete the arrangements for funds which the company have been promised from capitalists there, and if successful the work will soon be commenced. A committee is engaged in securing the right of way through Seventh street for a rail road to the grounds selected for furnace, and arrangements are being perfected to have a track laid to the site before work is commenced in order that the material may be secured for building without the heavy expense of cartage. If we meet with no failure east we may hope the project is secure.

The Peach Festival at South Haven this week was largely attended. Fruit was brought in for exhibiting in large quantities. The floral display was an attractive feature. The visitors made excursions through the various orchards finding them heavily laden with all kinds of fruit. The first premium for Hale's early peach was awarded to Judge Ramsdell of Grand Traverse. The Williams process of preserving fruit was highly praised by all; it is said to be cheap, convenient, and does beautiful work, the right of the patent for Berrien County was purchased by parties of South Haven for $5,000. A new basket doing away with the deceitful Tarlatan elicited much praise among fruit men. The visitors were well pleased with their reception, every thing passing off to their entire satisfaction creating an impression that South Haven was a good place to go to, and that South Haven people were alive to the fruit interest.

Jeff Davis did his best when he fled from Richmond to make out of himself a reconstructed woman. He made such a bad failure, however, that he deems the work simply impossible; and this probably accounts for his statement at White Sulphur Springs, Virginia, that he has "yet to meet the first reconstructed Southern woman." Just what Jeff means by a "reconstructed woman" is clouded with doubt. His practical experience among the sex may enable him to know in what particular they are defective, and just where the work of reconstruction is most needed. Probably Jefferson will shed more light upon the subject when he and the historian Early have got further along in their great work. As the matter stands at present, he is far from complimentary to the women of the South. Who has intimated that they needed reconstruction? Bless their hearts, they are good enough as they are, and for Davis or any other historian to go growling about to meet one who is reconstructed, implies a lack of appreciation on his part of the women as the Creator made them. If the ex-President is not more careful he will get in trouble with the fair sex.

Shall the State be Divided.

The Ontonagon Miner, doubtless pushed on by the aspirations of some sorehead politician, wants to form a new State out of the Upper Peninsula and a part of the State of Wisconsin. It gives no particular reasons for this separation except the following:

Every day convinces us more and more of the urgent necessity of a separation from the State of Michigan. We think some steps should be taken by which a united action can be had at the next session of our Legislature so that our legislators cannot be mistaken at our action, or of our intentions. Some steps should also be taken to ascertain the opinion of the citizens of Ashland and Douglas counties, whom we have no doubt would be willing and anxious to cast their lot with the future State of Superior. In this connection we would say that we think the Legislature of Wisconsin have heretofore been too liberal in annexing the territory of Wisconsin. We object to having so large a slice of that territory; we need only the counties bordering on the lake; only them and nothing more. We think the move is taking an earnest shape from the people and we hope the papers of Lower Michigan will discuss the question in all its bearings impartially, so that the next Legislature will be prepared to act on an almost unanimous demand of the people of Lake Superior for a separation from Michigan and the creation of the State of Superior.

Common Council.

CITY OF HOLLAND, September 3.
Present Ald's Schaddelee, Kanter, Aling and Dykema, not constituting a quorum the Council was adjourned until Wednesday Sept. 10th at 7 1/2 o'clock p. m.

A boy who has been living with Mr. Andrew Little, in the township of Olive, accidentally shot himself Wednesday morning last, while carelessly handling a loaded pistol. What makes this occurrence the more distressing is, that the boy was a stranger; of a disposition to maintain entire silence as to his real name and parentage; he was known by the name of Peter Whanger in those parts; a stray waif stopping wherever he could find friends that would receive him. He had been called early in the morning to build a fire, after having done which he took a pistol from the table and while handling it, it went off, the ball passing through the stomach and severing a blood vessel, which caused death in a few moments. After being shot he refused to give any information as to his name or the residence of his parents; he was about 12 years of age and supposed to be of German birth. An inquest was held by Justice Post of this city, a jury was called and after eliciting all the information that could be obtained the jury rendered a verdict of death from the accidental discharge of a pistol in his own hands.

Dastardly Outrage.

A few days since we copied an item from the Big Rapids Magnet, stating that a man named Canavan had been arrested in that place on the charge of attempting to rape a little girl. On examination he was discharged, evidence of the man's guilt not being sufficient to warrant his detention. From Big Rapids he went to Muskegon, and on Tuesday morning last was arrested for enticing a little girl into the woods, and raping her. The child's absence alarmed her parent, and they searched in vain for her during the night. About daylight, the fiend let her go, and she came home, being barely able to walk. The police were promptly informed of the affair, and with a minute description of the villain, given by the little girl, commenced search for him. Quite early in the forenoon, an officer found and arrested him in a barber shop, while in the act of shaving his mustache and goatee, which he was evidently doing for disguise. The little girl died of her injuries on Tuesday evening. The outrage created great indignation and excitement among the people. Toward evening, the report of the little sufferer's condition seemed to madden the masses, and a vast crowd, numbering five or six hundred people, wended their way to the jail. Arriving there, they demanded the prisoner for the avowed purpose of hanging him, which was refused by the Sheriff and his assistants. An attack was made upon the jail, and an entrance soon obtained, two doors and a window being beaten down. In the meantime Mayor Getty and other city and county officers addressed the crowd, counseling moderation. The father of the child finally addressed the mob, requesting them to disperse, announcing that he preferred that the law should be allowed to take its course and the offender punished in such a way as would involve none of them in difficulty. Such advice, coming from the man who had most cause for complaint, seemed to quiet the mob, and it reluctantly dispersed. This termination of the affair was probably best for the credit of that city.
